Notorious Gossip

There is a story about Arkansas which Texas and Oklahoma love to tell. It seems that when the colonization movement was under way after the Civil War, there was a sign placed at forks in the road from Tennessee to the Southwest. This sign said that those wanting to go to Oklahoma should go to the right, while those headed for the plains of Texas should take the left-hand road. The story goes that those who came along and didn't know how to read just settled down and founded Arkansas.

To a tramp on the grass in the park. "You win the prize as the laziest man in the world." Tramp: "Thanks, pal, roll me over and put it in me back pocket."

"Here's a real example of gratitude." "What is it?" "A wealthy woman creates a trust fund for a man who broke his engagement to her 20 years ago."

Shrimp: "That banker isn't so bad as people think he is. He's really a very good fellow when you know him. I went to him only last week to borrow $1,000 and he received me very cordially." "Sorghum: "Did he lend you the money?" "Shrimp: "No, he didn't—but he hesitated a minute before refusing me."

Brown had been in the habit of borrowing books from his neighbor. This had gone on for years, but the books were never returned. One day Green appeared at Brown's door carrying a large bookcase. "I seem to have no further use for this," he said, "and I am quite distressed in case you have no place to store my books conveniently."

FAMOUS ACTOR PASSES

Sir Henry Lytton

MOTOR ACCIDENT RECALLED

London, Aug. 15. Sir Henry Lytton, famous Gilbert and Sullivan actor, who was lying seriously ill in a nursing home here, has passed away.

Although not a member of the original Gilbert and Sullivan companies at the Savoy Theatre, Sir Henry Lytton was one of the few Savoyards who had played the operas under the personal direction of both Sir William Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan. Born in 1867, Lytton played leading baritone roles in touring companies for many years but did not appear at the Savoy until 1895 when a few days after "Ruddigore" was produced, George Grossmith was taken ill suddenly and Lytton stepped into the part of Robin Oakapple for several months.

For years he played the leading comedy part in the many revivals of the operas in England and was the Duke of Plaza Toro in the

FESTIVAL OF YOUTH

Sportsmanship At The Olympics

LORD ABERDARE'S IMPRESSIONS

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Berlin, Aug. 15. "The future of the Olympic spirit is once more a celebrated triumph at Berlin," declared a member of the International Olympic Committee, Lord Aberdare, in an interview on Saturday. The British sportsman expressed his appreciation of the hospitality shown by Berliners during the Olympic games in the following words: "It appeared as if everyone was taking part in the world festival of youth in the spirit of true fellowship."

Referring to Anglo-German relations, Lord Aberdare expressed his satisfaction that close blood relationship existing between the German and British people had proved stronger than the barrier which had temporarily separated the two nations during the world war.

After paying tribute to the fine sportsmanship displayed by Germans during the Olympic games, the British visitor concluded his statement by summing up his chief impressions during his stay in Germany as follows: "Above all I want to stress that, my observations showed me that the German people stand behind their leader as one man. When I met Adolf Hitler, I felt that I was in the presence of a great man. In numerous conversations here I found it confirmed that Germany is sincerely striving to co-operate with Britain for world peace. All Europe is indebted to Germany because the German Nazi government tackled communism and destroyed its deleterious influences."

original production of the "Gondoliers" in the United States. He was knighted in June 1930 and retired in 1933. Several of the Savoy opera gramophone recordings by H.M.V. have Lytton in the main part.

Lytton was married to Louise Henri, also a Savoyard, and their son, Henry A. Lytton junior also an actor, was the first husband of Jessie Matthews, the English film star. In 1933 Lytton was driving a car with Bertha Lewis, noted player of the Savoy opera, contralto roles with whom Lytton had been associated for many years. The car overturned and Miss Lewis was killed. Lytton's grief led to his immediate retirement.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD

TO GET RID OF STOMACH TROUBLES

An English Doctor writes:—

"I find that 'Bisurated' Magnesia taken after most of my meals is the only thing that keeps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."

(Signed) Dr. H. G. M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of 'Bisurated' Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why 'Bisurated' Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralises excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking 'Bisurated' Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

OLYMPIC GAMES PROGRESS

Germany's Successes On Friday

MEDAL STANDINGS

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)
Berlin, Aug. 15.

By winning 5 out of 7 rowing events on Friday the Germans set up a record entirely without precedent in the annals of the Olympic Games. The first four races of the day were won by Germany without interruption, and the enthusiasm of the huge crowd of spectators, which included Chancellor Hitler, grew simply undecipherable, as victory followed victory, only two events, double sculls with Befford and Southwood of Britain and the eights, USA, were won by non-Germans. The fifth German victory was the coxswainless four, which the German team won in 7.1.8 mins./secs. followed by Britain in 7.8.5 mins./secs. and Switzerland in 7.10.8 mins./secs.

The successive run of German victories ended with the double sculls won by Befford and Southwood of Britain in 7.20.8 mins./secs. The Germans Kaidel and "Pirsch" and the Poles Ustupski and Verhey placed 2nd and 3rd in the time 7.26.2 mins./secs and 7.36.2 mins./secs respectively. The seventh and last rowing event was won by USA in 6.25.4 mins./secs. while Italy with 6.26 and Germans with 6.26.4 mins./secs. were second and third respectively.

Britain, Hungary and Switzerland finished 4th, 5th and 6th respectively.

RAINY CONDITIONS

Berlin, Aug. 15.

Despite torrential rain pouring down intermittently in the morning, and continuously in the afternoon, crowds of people had, often with great difficulty, succeeded in getting tickets for Friday's events, and the Stadium and other Sports Grounds were as full as on previous days. As far as circumstances permitted the crowds often took refuge in the intervals, so that the places were continuously full and empty, the spectators not even waiting for the results to be announced. The coffeestands and hot-sausagestands did a roaring trade, the people stoking up the human motor for fear of taking home colds after their wetting.

"I am happy to see that the Olympic Games have done so much to improve and cement the relations between Germany and Japan."

You may be certain that Japan will do its utmost to conduct the Olympic Games of 1940 according to the example set by Germany in 1936. In order to be worthy of the great success of the Olympic Games in Berlin this year."

Dr. Rust answered:

"Germany is happy that it has been able to do something to promote the Olympic Idea. If these chivalrous contests have done something to promote understanding and mutual respect among the people, it is a matter of course that the longstanding cultural relation between Germany and Japan should become still more friendly. It is therefore with special delight that the Germans look forward to be the guests of the Japanese people in 1940."

U. S. DISLIKE OF WAR

Roosevelt Deals With Situation

New York, Aug. 14.

America's determination to isolate herself completely from war was emphasised by President Roosevelt in a striking address to a summer conference at Chautauqua.

The President expressed himself as more concerned and less cheerful about international world conditions than America's immediate domestic prospects. A bitter experience was witnessed by the fact that not only the spirit but the letter of international agreements were being violated with impunity and without regard for the simple principle of honour.

President Roosevelt recounted America's efforts to assist international movements to prevent war, and added that when it became evident that no general naval limitation treaty could be signed, because of the objections of others, they concluded with Britain and France a conditional treaty which, much to his regret, had already shown signs of ineffectiveness. They shunned political commitments which might entangle them in foreign affairs.

It was, said the President, beyond his power to keep war from all nations, but he could at least make certain that no act of the United States helped to produce or promote war.

The conscience of America, said the President, revolted against war. Nevertheless, if war should break out on another Continent, they would find in this country that thousands of Americans who were seeking riches—fools of gold—would attempt to break down and evade America's neutrality. "They would tell you," said the President, "that if they could produce and ship this, that or the other article to the belligerents, the unemployed in America would all find work, and America would again capture world trade."

"It would be hard to resist that clamour, but if we have to face the choice of profits or peace, the American nation must answer, 'We choose peace.'"

President Roosevelt concluded:—"We seek to dominate no other nation; we do not desire territorial expansion; we oppose imperialism; we desire reduction of armaments; we offer every nation in the world the hand-clasp of a good neighbour. Let those wishing our friendship look us in the eye and take our hand."

SUSPICIOUS WAYS OF RUSSIA

German Press Comment

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Berlin, Aug. 14.

The report of the semi-official News Agency in Soviet Russia about the discovery some time ago of a number of terrorists of the Trotsky-Sinoviev Group and the issue of injunction against Sinoviev-Apfelbaum, Kamenoff, Smirnov, Dreiser, Goldmann, Reinhold and other members of the group, has prompted the German semi-official News Agency to point out the remarkable fact that the Soviet Agency only made this report after the dangerous Bolshevik intrigues of Trotsky were exposed by anti-Communist circles outside of Russia. The haste with which Moscow now anew seeks to dissociate itself from Trotsky and the Sinoviev group appears just as suspicious as the noise accompanying it.

WHITE CITY ATHLETICS

U. S. And British Stars Compete

MANY NEW RECORDS ESTABLISHED

London, Aug. 15. Seventy thousand people attended White City on one of the warmest days of the year with an absence of wind to watch the cream of the United States and British Empire athletes who had won fame at the Berlin Olympics compete in the track and field contest.

One point was awarded for a win in each event and with the winning of the four miles event and the javelin throw the United States took the winning lead, finishing 11 points to 3.

The United States set a new world record for the two miles relay and four miles, while the British Empire gained similar honours in the mile relay.

The two miles relay, was won by the United States team (Charles Hornbostel, R. Young, Archie Williams and Johnny Woodruff) in 7 mins. 35 and 8-10 secs., which is a new world's record.

The British Empire, represented by B. F. McCabe, Boot, J. Backhouse and J. V. Powell, clocked 7 mins. 38.6-10 secs., which also beat the former world's record of 7 mins. 41.4-10 secs. established by a United States quartette comprising S. H. Martin, C. Sansome, L. Hahn and Ray Baker in America on July 6, 1928.

SECOND U.S. SUCCESS

The United States secured a second win in the four times 100 Metres Relay when Frank Wykoff, Gluckman, Jesse Owens and Ralph Metcalfe clocked 37.4-10 secs. for another world record.

The British Empire team (D. Orr, A. S. Pennington, A. W. Sweeney and M. Theunissen) were clocked at 38.2-10 secs., which also beat the world mark set at the Olympic Games by the U.S. quartette. They were beaten by 8 yards.

LOVELOCK WINS

The British Empire won the three miles event when Jack Lovelock, the world famous New Zealand athlete and winner of the Olympic 1,500 Metres title, came first in 14 mins. 14.8-10 secs. followed by Burns (B.E.), Zamperini (U.S.), Donald Laah (U.S.), P. D. Ward (B.E.), Deckhard (U.S.), while close behind the last named athlete was Dudyka (U.S.).

The United States easily won the putting the shot event on an aggregate basis. Francis (U.S.) was first with 51 ft. 6 ins., while Jack Torrance was second with 50 ft. 7 1/4 ins. Saltz (U.S.) was third 49 ft. 7.7-8 ins., Howland (B.E.) was fourth with 40 4/4 ins., Reeves (B.E.) was fifth with 42 ft. 5.3-8 ins. and Watson (B.E.) was sixth with 41 ft. 10 1/4 ins.

The 120 yards high hurdles (individual) was won by Forrest Towns (U.S.), the Olympic 110 Metres champion, who shattered the British native record of 15 secs. by D. O. Finlay, the British Olympic captain, by a fifth of a second in 14.4-5 secs. Fred Pollard (U.S.), D. O. Finlay (B.E.), Staley (U.S.), O'Connor (B.E.), and Thornton (B.E.) followed in that order.

RELAY RECORD

The British Empire established a new world's record for the mile relay when, represented by W. Roberts, Godfrey Rampling, E. Fritz and A. G. K. Brown, they clocked 3 mins. 10.6-10 secs. to better the previous best mark of 3 mins. 12.9-10 secs. set up by a U.S. quartette comprised of Shore, L. J. Hables, A. A. Hables and Ben Eastman, in America, on May 8, 1931.

The United States, represented by Archie Williams, Fitch, Glen Hardin and Jimmy Luvall were defeated by a yard.

The United States won the hammer throwing event, taking the first three places. Dreyer (U.S.), with 168 ft. 0 1/4 ins. came first, Favor (U.S.), with 163 ft. 1 1/4 ins. was second and Rowe (U.S.), with 162 ft. 3 ins. was third.

The British Empire, represented by Nokes, Drake and Bloch respectively, took fourth, fifth and sixth places with 148 ft. 4 ins., 137 ft. 2 1/2 ins. and 123 ft. 2 1/2 ins.

The United States also won the Pole Vault and the High Jump events.

STEEPLECHASE

The British Empire won the two miles Steeplechase when T. Evanson, T. Stanbury, B. Rushton, and John Learing clocked 8 mins. 7.6-10 secs., the United States, represented by Dawson, Archie Williams, McCuskey and Manning, being beaten by inches.

The United States swept the board in the high jump, Cornelius

BRITISH CARS BARRED FROM EMPIRE SHOW

AMERICAN MOVE IN SOUTH AFRICA

London, July 25. Although the British Government is supporting the great Empire Exhibition at Johannesburg in September no British motor-cars can be shown.

This curious situation, which forbids representation of Britain's third greatest industry, has been brought about by American motor interests in South Africa. They have pointed out that the ground lease of the exhibition site precludes a motor section.

The chairman of the exhibition committee had actually set about arranging an exhibit with representatives of the British motor industry. The backing of the British Government had been obtained.

Then the South African Motor Traders' Association, most of whose members are tied up with America, invoked the ban in the ground lease. A show of British cars might have injured their business.

In the circumstances the motor industry of this country will be represented only by a show of historical models—on a scale of one inch to the foot.

Johnson, the new Olympic champion, setting up a new British native record of 6 ft. 7 ins. to take first place, while Dave Albritton (U.S.) secured second place with a clearance of 6 ft. 5 1/2 ins. Al Thurber (U.S.) was third with 6 ft. 3 ins.

The British Empire secured the fourth, fifth and sixth places through Haley (6 ft. 1 1/2 ins.), Newman (6 ft.) and Tracker (6 ft. 0 1/2 ins.).

NEW WORLD MARK

The United States (Charles Hornbostel, Gene Venzke, Joe San Romani and Glen Cunningham) set a new world record for the four miles in 17 mins. 17.2-10 secs.

The British Empire, represented by Scholts, Eeles, Graham and J. F. Cornes, were beaten by 50 yards.

The United States secured another triumph when they won the mile medley relay, 880, 220, 220 and 440 in 3 mins. 23.4-10 secs.

America was represented by Cagle, W. Draper, Johnny Woodruff and Mack Robinson, who came second to Jesse Owens in the Olympic Games 200 metres. The British Empire were represented by Ghose, D. Orr, A. S. Pennington and Phil Edwards, who clocked 3 mins. 24.6-10 secs.

The javelin throw also went to the United States, Bartlett, reaching 197 ft. 1 inch, for first place, while Terry (U.S.) was third with 215 ft. 1 inch. Ralph Metcalfe (U.S.) was fourth with 205 ft. 11 ins. The Empire placings were: Courtney, 217 ft. 6 ins. second, Woolner 197 ft. 4 ins. and Rupelies 137 ft. 5 1/2 ins.

POLE VAULT RECORD

A new British native record was set in the pole vault by Earle McCawson (U.S.), the Olympic champion, who cleared the bar at 11 ft. 2 ins. to better the old mark by 6 inches, while Bill Graber (U.S.) and Bill Sefton (U.S.), who came third and fourth respectively in the Olympic Games, tied for second place at 13 ft. 9 ins. The British Empire, however, were not far behind the Americans; Duplessis also tied for second place with a clearance of 13 ft. 8 ins., while W. N. Webster, the former British native champion, and Apps tied for third place with 12 ft. 6 ins.

BROAD JUMP

America also won the broad jump, Brooks clearing 24 ft. 10 ins. to take first place, while Richardson (B.E.) was second with 24 ft. 1 inch. Third place went to Brown (U.S.) with 23 ft. 11 1/4 ins., while Clark (U.S.) was fourth with 23 ft. 11 1/4 ins. Traynor (B.E.) with 21 ft. 10 ins. and Dickson (B.E.) with 20 ft. 11 ins. came fifth and sixth respectively.

The United States won by 11 points to 3.

ASKING "TIM"
THE TIME

New Service Begun

APPARATUS BUILT BY THE POST OFFICE

London, July 25.

In the presence of many guests at the Tandem Telephone Exchange, High Holborn, yesterday, the Astronomer Royal, Mr. H. Spencer Jones, opened the Post Office speaking-clock service, by means of which a subscriber in the London area, on dialling "TIM," is automatically given the time at any period of the day or night in the tones of the winner of the Golden Voice Competition. In due course the service will be provided at two provincial exchanges, probably Manchester and Bristol.

The apparatus consists of four rotating glass disks, on which are a number of concentric sound tracks. The words are recorded in much the same way as speech and music are recorded on the track along the edge of a cinematograph sound film. Speech is reproduced from the disks by focusing a beam of light on to one of the tracks and allowing the light to fall on to a photo-electric cell, thus producing an electric current which can be amplified by means such as are employed in sound film apparatus. Each of the tracks on the disks corresponds to a number or phrase, all being synchronized to build up the spoken sentences.

200 CALLS AT A TIME

The Postmaster-General (Major Tryon), who presided at the opening ceremony, said the apparatus was the latest and most wonderful of clocks. Every month 100,000 Londoners rang up their exchanges to ask the time. In future they would be able to get it with greater accuracy from the speaking clock. He hoped telephone subscribers would remember that the clock only dealt with about 200 callers at the same time, and that if too many people rang up in the first few days they might find the line engaged and suffer disappointment.

The Astronomer Royal, after explaining that he had to keep clocks that recorded, both sidereal time and mean time, said the signals sent out by the standard mean-time clock included an hourly signal direct to the General Post Office. The time of that signal rarely differed from the clock time by more than two-hundredths of a second. Allowing for the possible error in the clock itself, the signal was generally accurate within five-hundredths of a second. That signal would control "Tim," and ensure that it told "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

Captain B. S. Cohen, staff engineer, General Post Office, said that the speaking clock had been designed and constructed in the Post Office Engineering Research Station at Dollis Hill. It would give a 24-hour time service with the announcements changing every 10 seconds, and having an accuracy of within one-tenth of a second.

BRITISH PLANES
FOR SPAIN

(Hong Kong Daily Press) Special

London, Aug. 14.

The question of the exportation of British commercial planes to Spain is being investigated by the British Government at present. Informed quarters here assert that the British Authorities fully share the French view relative to the Neutrality Agreement, but are unable to prevent the export before the Agreement has been formally signed.

The British Foreign Office however, so political circles state, still hopes that an international agreement will be reached. It is stated here that the Portuguese Government has intimated that Portugal will join a non-interference pact if Britain guarantees Portugal's inviolability.

No applications have as yet been tendered for the exportation of military planes, but the press asserts that 300 British commercial planes have been sold to Spain within the last three weeks, some to the Government and some to the Nationalists.

"SPEED"

In this mechanical age there is natural interest in anything that has to do with the glamour and mystery of events that occur behind the scenes in the great industries. This interest attains its highest pitch when it concerns the lives of the dare-devil men who test cars and planes before they leave the factories.

All of which probably accounts for the enthusiasm with which an audience at the King's Theatre to-day greeted Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's appropriately titled picture, "Speed."

Lucien Hubbard, the producer, with Edwin L. Marin directing, has caught the charged atmosphere of a vast automobile concern at a time when its product is facing a revolutionary change that may either make or break the company. The story, written by Lawrence Bachman and Milton Krims, is unique in its combination of romance and terrific action in a phase of American life that has not been pictured on the screen until now.

The cast presents James Stewart, Wendy Barrie, Una Merkel, Weldon Heyburn, Ted Healy, Ralph Morgan and Patricia Wilder.

James Stewart, as the picturesque test driver absorbed in his invention of a new carburetor, not only delighted the audience with his spectacular daring, but definitely won them for his qualities as a romantic young lover.

"THE WIDOW FROM MONTE CARLO"

Some years ago motion picture censors decided to use a stop-watch on screen kisses. This regulation made an art out of the business of osculation. Motion picture stars have become expert in this art by reason of the fact that they are required to interpret every known type of kiss in front of the motion picture camera. Censors decided to regulate kissing because a great number of pictureplay goers resented an over-play of passionate embraces. The so-called vampires of the silent days, Theda Bara, Nita Naldi and Virginia Pearson probably hold the time records for screen kisses yet the screen stars of to-day are said to be the more perfect lovers.

Dolores Del Rio, now playing in "The Widow from Monte Carlo," the Warner Bros. picture now showing at the Queens, has some definite ideas about kissing.

To a recent question as to whether a star can remain indifferent while being kissed in front of a motion picture camera, Miss Del Rio says:

"A kiss in itself is not important. One cannot remain entirely indifferent to all screen kisses nor can one be moved by them all. The situation of the story, the amount of emotion in the scene and the sincerity of one's co-player must all be taken into consideration."

"Frankly I have been kissed before the camera and remained indifferent and I have also been kissed before the camera and got a thrill out of it."

Miss Del Rio is well qualified to discuss screen love. She has portrayed a number of lover roles. As Charmaine in "What Price Glory," it will be remembered that she divided her love between Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen. She was the reason for the most of the dissension between these two war buddies.

More recently she portrayed the role of Madame DuBarry in the picture that was named for one of the most famous lovers in history.

No amount of persuasion would induce Miss Del Rio to divulge the names of the leading men whose kisses were sufficiently vibrant that they came under the classification of those about whom she had "not remained indifferent."

"The Widow from Monte Carlo," is a gay romance based on the play by Ian Hay and A. E. Mason. In the cast besides Miss Del Rio are Warren William, Louise Fazenda, Colin Clive, Herbert Marnin, Olin Howland and Warren Hymer.

Arthur Greville Collins directed the picture from the screen play by F. Hugh Herbert.

fired with ambition and afraid only of failure.

Wendy Barrie, playing the role of an executive's daughter working in the plant incognito, gives one of the most charming characterizations of her career.

Weldon Heyburn, the distinguished Broadway stage star, portrays the brilliant engineer and rival for the affections of the girl with school ability. Every member of the cast performed with pleasing ability. "Speed" is a picture that reflects the breathless pace of the contemporary age.

BRITAIN'S NEW WARPLANES

Monoplane Phase

HEAD OF THE INDUSTRY

Sir Robert McLean, one-time railway chief in India and for the past eight years in charge of the aviation interests of Vickers, Ltd., was recently reappointed chairman of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors, a post to which he was elected a year ago. Mr. F.S. Spriggs, of the Hawker-Siddeley combine, became Deputy Chairman (Aircraft) in succession to Mr. Hugh Burroughes, of the Gloster Company, who had held the post for three years. Air Vice-Marshal A.E. Borton, of D. Napier and Son, Ltd., was appointed Deputy Chairman (Engines) for a further year of office. Mr. R.H. Dobson, of the Avro company, was elected Treasurer in the place of the late John Lord.

Mr. Spriggs and Mr. Dobson are new to office with the S.B.A.C. which is the representative body of the British aircraft industry, comprising in its membership practically every maker of aircraft and aero engines and most of the more important suppliers of parts, materials and accessory equipment. Mr. Spriggs, at the age of 41, shoulders more responsibility than any other executive in the industry. He is director and general manager of Hawker Aircraft, Ltd., chairman of the Gloster company and managing director of the Armstrong Siddeley Development Company, which controls among other interests three important manufacturing firms in the aircraft industry: Armstrong Siddeley Motors, Sir W.G. Armstrong Whitworth Aircraft, and A.V. Roe and Company. All five firms have a long and distinguished history, and all are busy in coping with large orders placed in connection with the programme of Royal Air Force expansion. In addition, the Hawker, Armstrong Siddeley and Avro works have in hand big overseas contracts and the Armstrong Whitworth concern is building twelve of the largest landplane airliners in the world for Imperial Airways.

THE CASE FOR PRIVATE AIRCRAFT MANUFACTURE

Evidence given before the Royal Commission on the Private Manufacture of and Trading in Arms by Sir Maurice Hankey, who for twenty years has been Secretary to the Cabinet and for twenty-four years Secretary to the Committee of Imperial Defence, speak strongly in favour of the continuance of a private aircraft constructing industry, supporting to the full the case presented to the Commission in February by the Society of British Aircraft Constructors.

On the general question of the private manufacture of armaments, Sir Maurice Hankey, whose evidence has just been published in detail, said: "First, prohibition of private manufacture would be disastrous to Imperial defence; second, in any case it is out of the question when we are in the throes of a great programme of re-conditioning our forces; and third, the case for prohibition has not been established."

He said that "prohibition of private aircraft manufacture would mean either taking over the greater part of the existing private industry or starting up a new system of state factories. He continued: "Once more I return to the same point—that it is un-

"FLORIDA SPECIAL"

Paramount's thriller, "Florida Special," now being screened at the Alhambra features Jack Oakie (who may also be seen at the Star in "Colleen"), Sally Eilers, Kent Taylor and Frances Drake in the leading roles. While there are thrills galore aboard the train en route to Florida comedy is thrown in for full measure.

"Florida Special" tells the story of an eccentric millionaire who transports a million dollar's worth of uncut diamonds to Florida in a briefcase chained to his crooked secretary. In the company of his niece, in league with the secretary to steal the gems, Gillingwater, the millionaire entrains for Florida. Jack Oakie, as the reporter, and Sally Eilers, as the train hostess, are splendid in their respective roles.

thinkable during the present expansion of the Air Force. The Air Force is the one force which is expanding as distinct from re-conditioning and nationalization would be open to the strongest objections."

MORE EVIDENCE

Sir Maurice Hankey's further evidence left no room for doubt that his support of private aircraft manufacture extends beyond the present period of emergency expansion of the R.A.F. He stated: "The National Aircraft Factories, established by the Ministry of Munitions, were not a conspicuous success—though, the late period of the War in which they were brought into being makes it unfair to judge them too harshly. The best designs of aeroplanes and aero engines during the War were produced by the trade." He produced figures to show that of 55,903 aircraft built in Great Britain during the War, all but 1,202 were produced by British private factories; and that of 57,931 engines, private firms produced 41,034, the remainder coming from abroad.

"As a result of experience both in the War and after the War," added Sir Maurice Hankey, "the Air Ministry attach the utmost importance to retention of the private aeroplane and engine industry." All of the Services were very strong on the point that private industry was of great importance from the point of view of inventions, research, design and experiment. "The Air Ministry," he said, "tell me that they cannot overstate the importance of competing design staffs in the aircraft industry, which would not be retained under state monopoly."

OVERSEAS AIRCRAFT TRADE

He dealt fully with the vexed problem of the export of military aircraft. He stated: "In the aircraft industry of Great Britain an export trade in aircraft and aeronautical material has grown up since 1925. This has stimulated the British aircraft industry and has led to increased orders and employment. Spread over the five-year period 1930-1934, the production of aircraft, aero engines, and spare parts exported represents from one-quarter to one-fifth of the total manufacture. A substantial sum of foreign money thus finds its way into British pockets and goes some way towards carrying the overhead costs of the aircraft industry, enabling firms not only to cheapen their prices, but to carry out work of a developmental and experimental nature. The loss of these foreign orders would react disastrously on the aircraft firms, some of whom would be driven out of business, their capacity, while others would probably go out of business. This would seriously endanger the industrial nucleus regarded as essential for rapid expansion in time of emergency. It would also have a very serious repercussion on design."

REAL COMMERCIAL AVIATION

Sir Eric Geddes, Chairman of Imperial Airways, pays deserved tribute to what is perhaps the most notable fleet of airliners yet commissioned. In a letter to Mr. Handley Page about the performance of the eight H.P.42 biplanes which have worked important sections of the Empire air routes since 1931.

His letter reads: "These eight aircraft have flown collectively about 52,000 hours, or five million miles, and have consistently fulfilled all the traffic demands made upon them. They have flown night and day in all weathers and in all climates and have maintained standards of regularity and comfort which we do not think have yet been excelled.

"We still look forward with confidence to further useful work with these aircraft on the main line services whilst replacement aircraft we have ordered are being established, and thereafter on our ancillary and relief services. They are indeed a credit to your great firm."

STILL IN THE PINK

On paper the eight large biplanes are nearing the end of their working "lives," reckoning depreciation at 20 or 25 per cent. per annum; actually they are still in perfect condition—a fact proved by the most rigorous examination after 5,000 hours' flying—and, as indicated by Sir Eric Geddes, are fit for many more years of active service. Their record for safety, comfort, economy in operation and trustworthiness is unrivalled in the world. No traveller on an H.P.42 has sustained injury, though more than a quarter of a million passengers have journeyed in them. They are easy to handle; they take off like a fighter after a short forward run; and, with the help of automatic wing slots, can be landed slowly in a small field. Their operational economy, proved superior to that of any craft previously in airline service.

COMFORT AND EFFICIENCY

The outstanding qualities of the H.P.42 were secured by bold departures from contemporary practice. The fuselage was underslung beneath the biplane wings, thus providing an uninterrupted outlook from the passenger cabins. The wings were located in such a way as to act as sound screens for engine noise, and the engines themselves—Bristol Jupiter 9-cylinder air-cooled units—were mounted in a plane between the passenger cabins, which kept the more trying aircraft noise and engine noises from the ears of travellers. The forward part of the fuselage, including the passenger saloons, pilots' compartment and the rear baggage hold, is a metal monocoque structure of great solidity and strength. The cabin walls were carefully sound-proofed. Vibration was eliminated. For the first time conversation in ordinary tones became possible in an airliner. To this day the quiet of an H.P.42 cabin remains the criterion, and it is high praise to say that any aircraft is "as quiet as an H.P.42."

OVER $25,000

Four charges of embezzlement and four charges of fraudulent conversion, were preferred against Chung Wah-cho, aged 41, managing partner of the Tak Luen Construction Co., on Saturday when he appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court. The defendant lives at No. 197, Hennessy Road.

The charges were: (a) on August 24, 1934, embezzling the sum of $15,000, (b) on November 1, 1934, embezzling the sum of $1,000, (c) on December 10, 1934, embezzling the sum of $10,000, (d) on December 10, 1934, embezzling the sum of $1,000, (e) on August 24, 1934, fraudulently converting for his own use the sum of $15,000, (f) on November 1, 1934, fraudulently converting for his own use the sum of $1,000, (g) on December 10, 1934, fraudulently converting for his own use the sum of $10,000, and (h) on December 10, 1934, fraudulently converting for his own use the sum of $1,000.

The above sums were received by the defendant on account and on behalf of the Tak Luen firm. Chung Wah-cho, partner of the Tak Luen firm was the complainant.

Mr. M. W. Lo appeared for the defendant and asked for a long period in order to bring the books down from Canton.

Mr. C. D'Almeida, for the complainant, disagreed that a long interval was needed to obtain the books from Canton.

The hearing of the case was fixed for August 28, 2.30 p.m.

FALSE REPORT OF ROBBERY

Money Found In Bed Clothing

EMBEZZLEMENT ADMITTED

Tam Kam, 38, rent collector, appeared on remand before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday charged with embezzlement of $120, the property of Lai Tin-tuk, of 717, Nathan Road and giving false information to Det. Sergt. D. G. MacPherson with intent to defeat the ends of justice.

The case was remanded on Friday for the Magistrate to consider whether it was embezzlement by servant.

At the resumption of hearing the Magistrate said that after consideration he thought the charge should be amended to one of fraudulent conversion. The alteration was accordingly made.

Det. Inspector A. H. Elston, for the prosecution stated that the accused was a cook and for the past year had worked for his brother-in-law as a rent collector and in return for collecting rent he was given free lodging and sums of money from time to time. He received no fixed salary.

Recently he informed Lai that he (accused) had been robbed by armed men and he was told to inform the police of the occurrence. This he did, but subsequent inquiries carried out by the authorities proved that the statement was false. The money was eventually found concealed in the bed clothing.

In a statement to the police accused said "Yes, I did it. I did it because of poverty."

Sentence of six weeks' gaol was imposed on the first charge, and one month's imprisonment for false information, the sentences to run consecutively.

HEROIN PILLS COUP

Widow Arrested In Kowloon Flat

HEAVY FINE IMPOSED

A haul of 2,440 heroin pills was related by Revenue Officer J. P. O'Neill at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday when he prosecuted a 30 year-old widow with possession of the contraband, at No. 38 Tung Choi Street, third floor.

The revenue officer stated that a drying cupboard was found in the rear cubicle, containing the pills wrapped in packages. In another cubicle a pill making machine together with ingredients for the manufacture of pills were unearthed.

The accused, Wong Yuk, was the sole occupant on the floor. Access was gained by Mr. O'Neill by means of a ladder from the second floor verandah.

The front door, served by a wooden door and an iron grille was locked and barred. With the exception of the rear cubicle, the floor was devoid of furniture.

The woman claimed that she had resided on the floor for two or three days, having recently arrived from the country. She denied knowledge of the pills.

In answer to Mr. E. Himsforth (Magistrate) accused stated that she received instructions from a man surnamed Ng to stay in the flat until his family "moved in." Ng was at present in Canton.

A fine of $2,000 or four months' imprisonment was imposed. The contraband and accessories were ordered to be confiscated.

OPIUM CARRIER CAUGHT

Charged with possession of 13 tins of raw opium, Chan Fong, 29, married woman, was fined $200 or two months' imprisonment by Mr. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday. R.O. P.J. O'Neill stated that accused was arrested leaving the night express from Canton at the railway station on August 13. The opium was found concealed in a basket.

LORRY DRIVER CONVICTED

Theft of Four Tyres From Own Vehicle

TOOK LAW IN OWN HANDS

A story of how a lorry driver with 15 years' experience, took the law in his own hands and sold the four tyres of his vehicle in an alleged effort to obtain money to defray costs for a new licence, was related to Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday.

The driver, Cheng Him, 40, stood in the box charged with theft of the tyres on or about July 12, from lorry No. 2859, parked outside No. 48, Sai Yung Choi Street. Cheng claimed that he had not received his wages and admitted selling the tyres for $3.27. His master, Tsing Kau, contractor had instructed him to do so, and had received a certain percentage from the sale. Tsing denied this.

Relating the police version of the affair, Det. Sergt. R. E. Ellis stated that complainant was a contractor who three or four months ago, purchased a second hand truck and engaged Cheng as the driver. After two months of service, the truck went out of order and accused "services" were dispensed with. The Traffic Department brought up the question of a licence and ordered the truck to be made serviceable.

Cheng drove the truck to a garage in Sai Yung Choi Street on July 5. Complainant was emphatic, said the prosecuting officer, that he did not employ accused since July 5. A week later accused took the tyres from the truck and sold them for $3.20. Complainant knew nothing of the deal until the 11th of

TRADE MARK SUMMONS WITHDRAWN

DEFENDANT BLAMELESS

Seized Goods Restored

Application was made before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court on Saturday by Mr. F. E. Nash, on behalf of the Seu Loong firm, No. 14 Gough Street, for the withdrawal of a summons against the Tung Lee firm of No. 357, Queen's Road Central, who had been charged at the previous hearing with the possession for sale or for the purpose of trade, of cases of Chinese soy, to which a trade description, namely the name, Seu Loong, had been falsely applied.

Mr. M. A. da Silva for the defendant firm said that the complainant had not been aware that the words used had been part of a registered Trade Mark. They had since learned all the circumstances of the case and had very kindly consented to withdraw the summons against the defendant and return the goods seized, without attaching any moral blame to the defendant at all. They had made full restitution both to the defendant and the shipper, Messrs. J. M. Alves and Co. Mr. Silva did not ask for an order for costs against the complainant because provision had been made for that in the settlement.

Mr. Nash, endorsed the remarks of Mr. Silva and stated that his client had started the firm as far back as 1899, and through all that time had not known that the words Seu Loong had been used by any other firm until recently. In taking out the summons they had acted quite honestly.

Mr. Silva said that in view of Mr. Nash's remarks, he would have to state that the possible reason why Mr. Nash's client did not know of the use before was that he was a comparatively young man and had inherited the business from his father.

Mr. Silva pointed out that the registered mark used by the defendant had been registered in 1908.

Mr. Schofield agreed to the withdrawal of the summons and ordered the release of the goods seized.

BANISHES WHO LOTTERED

Chan Ying Kong, 20, unemployed, was charged before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court on Saturday with lottering in a dwelling about midnight. An additional charge of returning from banishment was also preferred against the defendant.

It was stated that the complainant awoke during the night and heard the sound of rustling and found the defendant in his room.

On the first charge the defendant was sentenced to three months and on the second to nine months' hard labour.

ARMS POSSESSION

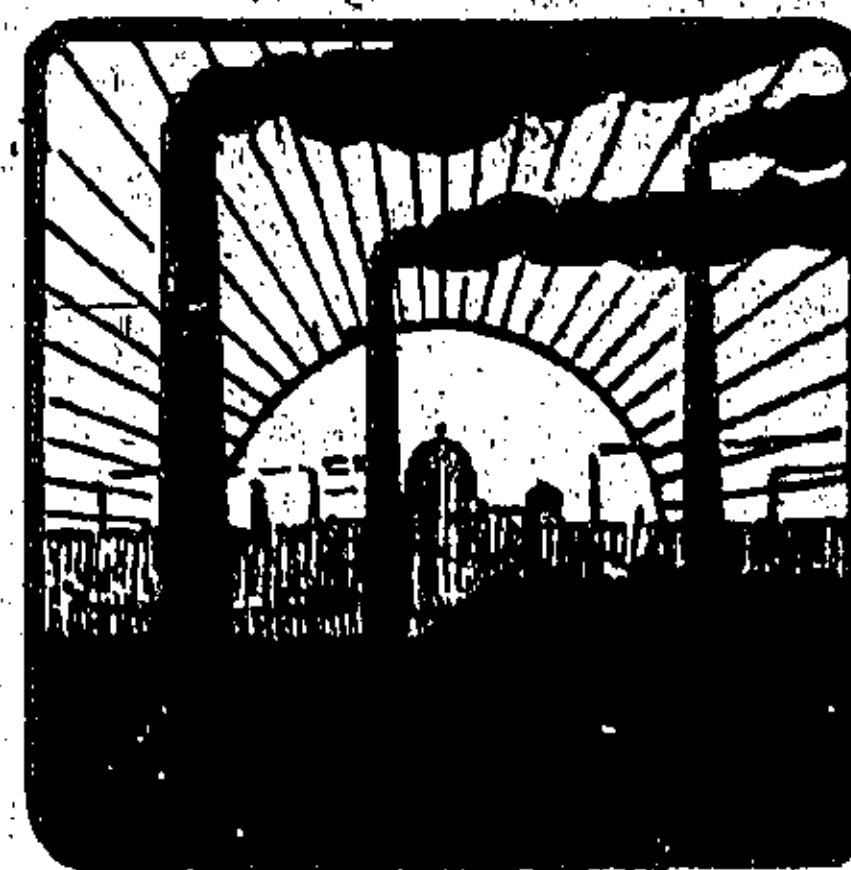

Charged with the possession of an automatic revolver and 200 rounds of ammunition, without the permission of the I.G.P., Lau Lin, 29, a married woman, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court on Saturday and was remanded for 48 hours. Detective Sergeant Guld appeared for the prosecution and said that the defendant was arrested on August 14.

This month, and what is more did not receive any money from Cheng. Evidence was given by both parties during which accused alleged non-payment of wages due to him.

Stating that he thought the contractor's story more probable, the Magistrate bound over accused in the sum of $50 for the period of a year. No order for compensation was made.

LEPER COLONY

SHAM SHUI PO RUMOURS

Rumours that a leper colony is living in, close proximity to the A.P.C. Installation in Shamshui Po have not received confirmation, though Dr. D. J. Valentine is reported to have stated that there are lepers wandering around the Colony, but who are no danger to the public.

Lepers, according to Dr. Valentine, when found in the street by the Police, are taken to the Hospital where they are examined and certified as lepers or not. If the case is advanced the patient is sent to the Kennedy Town Leper Hospital, but if the disease is only in its early stages, the patients are treated as out-patients in the Hospital.

Whenever the Leper Hospital is overcrowded some of the non-British subject patients are sent down to Shek Lung to relieve the congestion, but fortunately such occasions are rather rare.

Dr. Valentine said the authorities were very anxious to assure the public that as long as the lepers are not in a contagious stage and are having treatment, they are no danger to the public.

THEFT OF WALLET

In Ho Cheung, 21, was charged before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court on Saturday with the larceny of a leather wallet containing $1.45 and various personal articles.

Acting Inspector Hopkins stated that the offence took place at 11.20 a.m. on August 14 in Des Voeux Road near Cleverly Street, the defendant came up behind the complainant and stole the wallet. He was chased and arrested.

Defendant was sentenced to four months' hard labour.

COOLER AIR FOR M.P.S.' HEADS

VENTILATION SCHEME

London, July 30.
Proposals for improving the ventilation of the House of Commons are made by Earl Stanhope, First Commissioner of Works, in a memorandum which has been issued to M.P.s.

At present air is drawn from the river front, and passed through a washing screen, heating and equalising rooms to the debating chamber.

This system cools the feet of members and gives insufficient air movement around the head, whereas the ideal is to keep the feet warm and the head cool.

The memorandum suggests that hot air for heads causes the drowsy feeling which members experience during long sittings.

Lord Stanhope says that a system could be installed, at a

It is therefore considered that the way to improve the existing conditions would be to lower the temperature of the air and install radiant heating panels.

Electric panels would be fitted on other than front benches, on the backs of the seats. These would be controlled by members—two control switches to every three members.

It is proposed to fix a few sample panels at a cost of about £8,000.

The more elaborate scheme, to cost £20,000, is to be considered if and when the experts agree about humidity.

CHINA BAPTIST CENTENNIAL OBSERVANCE HELD

Address On Protestant Pioneers To China MEETING AT GOSPEL HALL

A meeting held at the Gospel Hall, on Saturday morning in Duddell Street, was the occasion of the observance of the China Baptist Centennial, in which about thirty five missionaries were present.

Miss Mollie McNinn, of the Mission at Wuchow, who is the senior missionary—having arrived in China in 1833—was asked to take charge of the meeting.

Miss McNinn graciously accepted the honour conferred upon her, and addressed the meeting saying that on that day they stood on the sacred milestone which marked the completion of a full century of work on the part of the Baptist Mission in South China.

It behooved them to walk softly and reverently, and to reflect not on what they had accomplished during that time, but on what God had wrought.

Their plans for the future, and the possibilities, were immense, and they had a stupendous task before them.

She had great pleasure in introducing the Rev. Dr. Geo. H. McNeur, of the New Zealand Presbyterian Mission, who would speak on the "Pre-treaty Protestant Pioneers in China."

THE ADDRESS

Dr. McNeur said: By "pre-treaty" we mean previous to the treaty of Nanking which was signed by Chinese and British plenipotentiaries on August 29, 1842, and ratified on June 26, 1843.

This treaty opened the first treaty ports in China, including Canton, and ceded Hong Kong to Britain. We do not mean, as might be wrongly inferred, that China had no treaties with other nations before that date. The Jesuit missionaries in Peking added to their prestige by assisting the Manchu rulers to negotiate a friendly treaty with Russia in 1689.

The Portuguese had reached an understanding of sorts regarding their occupation of Macao. A local treaty had also been signed by the Chinese authorities in South China with the Commander of a British squadron in 1841, allowing British ships the use of Hong Kong Island and the harbour. The first treaty negotiated between the United States of America and China was signed at Wong Ka, near Macao on July 3, 1844.

It is necessary to limit the present discussion to Protestant Missions because the whole subject of early Christian work in China is too wide a field for such a brief treatment. It is only just to remind ourselves, however, that many centuries before Robert Morrison arrived at Canton in 1807, the Church had made some attempt to fulfil the commission of the Lord to preach the gospel in China.

The first Nestorian missionaries were in China by 635 A.D. as witnessed by the inscription on the stone tablet discovered at Sian-fu, in Shensi, during 1925. There is a growing and illuminating literature on this subject.

NESTORIAN CHURCH

When the Mongols occupied China in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, the Nestorian Church, which had long been driven out of China, but had continued to exert a strong influence on the countries lying to the west, again entered the northern provinces. But its activities were so closely related to its Mongol official patrons that, when they had to leave the churches which had been founded, it also disappeared.

It was under the protection of the same Mongol conquerors that the Roman Catholics found their initial opening in China. Two Italian merchants—brothers named Polo—reached Peking in 1285, and when they returned home, carried a letter from the Mongol Khan to the Pope. In this letter, "he begged that the Pope would send as many as a hundred members of our Christian faith; intelligent men, acquainted with the seven arts, well qualified to enter into controversy, and able clearly to prove by force of argument to idolaters and other kind of folk that the law of Christ was best."

and that all other religions were false and nought. If they could prove this, he and all under him would become Christians and the Church's liegemen. Finally he charged the envoys to bring back to him some oil of the lamp which burns in the sepulchre of our Lord at Jerusalem."

The first Roman missionary to respond to this friendly invitation was a Franciscan monk—John of Montecorvino—who came alone to Peking in 1288. The work of John and those who followed him was, like that of the Nestorians, so bound up with the Mongol occupations that it, too, ceased when the Mongols had to vacate China.

For some centuries there were only vague references to any Christian activity in China, but in the middle of the sixteenth century the greatest of the Jesuit missionaries, Francis Xavier, came to Japan. On his voyage he called at Canton. That visit and his subsequent experiences in Japan, led him to feel that the evangelizing of China was the most peremptory call of Christ to his church. He died on an island off the coast of South China without attaining his passionate desire to begin that work.

EDICT PUBLISHED

Later in the century the Jesuit fathers got entrance from Macao into Canton and Shui Hing. From that base Ricci moved northward overland to Peking. There he placed his scholarship and skill at the disposal of the Ming rulers. Others joined him and later under the Manchu conquerors they continued to come until Christian committees were formed in the capital and throughout the provinces. An edict permitting the teaching of Christianity anywhere in China was published by the great Manchu emperor, Kang Hsi, towards the end of the seventeenth century.

The opportunity thus secured was lost through the use of unspiritual methods and sectarian rivalry. The different Catholic orders quarrelled amongst themselves over the proper Chinese name for God and the worship of the emperor, ancestors and sages. The Emperor insisted that he knew better than the Pope what was good for his subjects and a period of gradual restriction was followed by open and violent persecutions.

Missionaries were tortured, beaten, strangled or beheaded, while many were deported, Chinese priests and converts suffered even worse, many dying martyr's deaths.

I have taken the time to outline these facts because they help explain the attitude of the Chinese government and people early in Protestant mission work. Superadded to the reasons mentioned already there was the suspicion and opposition aroused among the common people by the religious observances of the Roman church. The more or less private observance of the rites of baptism and the eucharist, and specially, the custom of baptizing the dying and infants with the idea that their salvation was thus secured, led to the spread of all sorts of stories about human sacrifices, the taking out of eyes, and the doping of Chinese in order to give them foreign hearts.

IMMORALITY CHARGED

The practice of individual and secret confession lent itself to charges of immorality. That such popular rumours made real difficulties for Protestant Missions is evidenced by a letter written in 1827 by Liang-A-fa, and still preserved in the archives of the London Missionary Society in London. "The evangelist says the door into the Protestant church has been closed for most Chinese by the current stories that the priests in the Roman Church have improper relations with the wives and daughters of converts, and that the eyes of the dead are taken by them to make medicine."

Another obstacle which the Protestant church continued to share with the Roman Catholic was its evident connection with foreign nations and particularly the aggressive countries of Europe.

The Chinese officials at Canton felt that to them had been committed the guarding of China's main door of communication with other nations. The Emperor and his advisors at the capital, far removed from contact with the outer barbarians, had little idea of the heavy responsibility their deputies at Canton were carrying.

The value of foreign trade made no appeal to the royal court, but the two viceroys of the two Kwangs and his underlings realised the rich possibilities of this source of income. But they realised, too, that these were possibilities of another kind and that they would be held answerable by the throne for any loss of face or territory. Contact with the outside world had taught the Cantonese much about the unscrupulous covetousness of European powers. Spain had occupied the Philippine Island and in doing so had massacred many Chinese immigrants. The Dutch had secured a large territory in the East Indies and their trading vessels had long been frequent visitors to the coasts of China and Japan. The Portuguese had evidently come to Macao to stay and they were using that centre as a base for a wicked slave trade. The British Indian Company had followed its establishment in India by the gradual annexation of that great neighbour.

CUNNING INSTRUMENT

The process was being continued in the Malay States and now these intruders were rudely knocking at the almost closed doors of South China. France was following suit. It is not strange that the Cantonese became suspicious, and specially so of foreign activities presented under a friendly guise. They looked on Christian missions as a cunning instrument for the undermining of China's power and dignity.

Thus when the Protestant church began its task in China it was not only faced by the extraordinary difficulty of persuading a proud, self-sufficient and yet ignorant and superstitious people to forsake the religious beliefs and practices which many centuries of custom had made second nature, but it had also to contend with the contradiction shown by the greedy ambitions of the nations from which the missionaries came, along with the opposition already directed against the Roman Catholic church. With this dark background in mind, let us now very briefly trace the beginning of Protestant missions in China.

In Mr. Wylie's, "Memorials of Protestant Missionaries to the Chinese," published at Shanghai, the first place is given to the English Baptist missionary in India Joshua Marshman. Two years before Morrison came to China, Marshman commenced the study of Chinese at Singapore. Marshman succeeded in producing the first complete translation of the entire Scriptures into Chinese, the book being published at Serampore in 1822.

ROBERT MORRISON

On the centenary of Robert Morrison's death the facts of his life were brought afresh before the missionary community in South China. It was not surprising that in popular Christian estimation as in actual use, Morrison's translation of the bible should have made Marshman's tremendous achievement appear almost unnecessary. Sir Robert Hart, the Inspector General of the then Imperial Maritime Customs, said of him: "All who came after—merchants, missionaries, ministers—owe him a debt of gratitude."

Morrison owed his long opportunity of service at Canton, to his employment by the East India Company as their official translator and interpreter. We are impressed with the fitness of God's choice in this first missionary. As his biographer says, "He was precisely fitted to the position he was called to fulfil." The patience that refuses to be conquered, the diligence that never tires, the caution that always trembles, and the studious habit that spontaneously seeks retirement, were best adapted for the situation of the first missionary in China.

Robert Morrison himself said, "What we require in all the members of the missionary community is unfeigned piety, humility, education or skill in their several de-

SUMMARY OFFENCES AMENDMENT

HILLSIDE CARVING PROHIBITED

The Government Gazette publishes the Draft Bill of an Ordinance to amend further the Summary Offences Ordinance, 1932.

The Ordinance is cited as the Summary Offences (No. 2) Amendment Ordinance, 1936.

The objects and reasons state:—Section 3 (17) of Ordinance No. 40 of 1932 provides that every person shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $250 who, without lawful authority or excuse, in any public place posts up or exhibits, or causes to be posted up or exhibited, any notice or proclamation in the Chinese language without the permission of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs or a District Officer. This paragraph is not to apply to Government notices.

The paragraph in question was taken from paragraph (13D) of section 2 (b) of Ordinance No. 22 of 1930, which was repealed by section 32 of the 1932 Ordinance.

A magisterial decision in 1931, under the 1930 Ordinance, held that the distribution of a handbill in the Chinese language was "exhibiting a notice." Since then it has been the practice to provide each distributor of handbills with a chopped copy containing the approval, which he could show to any police officer.

A more recent magisterial decision under the 1932 Ordinance has held that the distribution of handbills was not covered by the paragraph in question.

The object of Clause 2 of this amending Bill is to bring the distribution of handbills again within the mischief, against which the paragraph is aimed.

Clause 3 of this Bill prohibits the unauthorised defacement of rocks or road-cuttings in or near any public place. The soft disintegrating granite of the Colony, through which most of its beautiful hillside motor-roads and footpaths are cut, is easily carved with a knife or sharp stick with the result that, in the absence of a prohibition, much of the beauty of these roads and paths has been marred by slogans, devices, names and other efforts at self-expression carved by idle loiterers.

JOURNALIST DIES IN GALLERY

MR. JAMES JOHNSTON

London, July 24.
Mr. James Johnston, a well-known Parliamentary journalist, collapsed and died in the Press Gallery of the House of Commons last night.

The tragedy occurred a few hours after the scenes which led to the suspension of three I.L.P. members. Mr. Johnston, who was Parliamentary sketch writer for the "Birmingham Post," was present during the incidents, and appeared to be in normal health. About ten o'clock, on entering the gallery to hear the closing speeches in the debate, he collapsed. Dr. J. W. Leech, M.P. for West Newcastle-on-Tyne, immediately responded to a call for medical help, but found that death had already taken place. Mr. Johnston had for many years been a member of the Press Gallery. He was an accomplished writer on political personalities and affairs at Westminster. His publications included "A Hundred Commons" in 1931 and a collection of character studies of men and women in the House of Commons for which Mr. Baldwin wrote a preface. Mr. Johnston was a barrister, and stood as a Parliamentary candidate in the Liberal interest at North Edinburgh in 1918, North Aberdeen 1922, Ludthgowshire 1923, Glasgow (St. Rollox) 1924, and West Leyton

TOO MANY RABBITS

The headmaster at Rugby, Mr. P. H. B. Lyon, was addressing the boys on Speech Day recently. Some things he told them deserve a wider audience. He does not believe that their best preparation to take rightful part in a very troubled modern world is to spend a great amount of time in trying to keep pace with changing policies of parties and nations often abandoned overnight.

Without admitting that all study of current events is unprofitable the devourer of many newspapers and magazines and the weary radio listener-in may go at least part way with the distinguished scholar. Having gathered, for instance, that the Postmaster General of the United States is an altruist, selflessly devoting all energies to rescuing him and other "forgotten men" he is horrified to learn to-day that Dick Turpin and Jessu James were positively impeccable in comparison with the leader of the National Democratic Committee.

Comfortably convinced of the virtues of the League of Nations, which a broadcaster hails as the world's foremost political and economic saviour, he becomes a bit jumpy when the militant Mr. Garvin in the London Observer discloses hitherto—even for him—unreached peaks of phrasemaking in uncovering the perfectly puerile pusillanimity of the delegates at Geneva.

After which the aforesaid devourer of news is left breathless as a wire-haired terrier we once observed attempting to run down every jackrabbit on a western prairie. And pretty willing to agree with the headmaster's dictum:

What is lacking in the modern world is not information but reason, not knowledge but wisdom, not policy but principle, not efficiency but morality.

As the victim of ten thousand conflicting reports seizes moments for silent thought, he is inclined at times to echo the entirety of Martial, the Roman epigrammatist, "Unmerciful man do at last take pity on us, and at length hold your peace."

1929. He was not successful in securing election.

Mr. Johnston was born in Scotland sixty years ago, graduated at Glasgow University, and at Jena University he took a philosophical degree. At the age of 25 he was appointed sketch writer for the "Daily Chronicle." He was called to the Bar and practised intermittently. During the war he was at the Ministry of Food. He wrote for several papers, including the "Manchester Guardian," and three years ago he became the sketch writer for the "Birmingham Post." One of his best books was "An Orator of Justice," a biography of his friend Lord Buckmaster. Mr. Johnston leaves a widow and three sons, one of whom is at Cambridge.

Severe Blow In Colony

Midnight Anxiety Over Typhoon

SIGNAL AND GUNS GIVE WARNING

The Colony experienced a severe blow as the night wore on and the harbour ferries had to stop before their accustomed hour as about midnight the No. 10 signal, indicating that wind of typhoon force was expected from any direction, was hoisted and warning guns were fired shortly after 12.30.

Although there was little rain at the time, the wind was very severe in Kowloon and there was great activity among the shopkeepers on the Hong Kong prays in making premises and signboards secure against the unusual conditions.

Less than a week has passed and Hong Kong is threatened by another typhoon.

Indications of a typhoon being in the vicinity was given yesterday when at 4.22 a.m. the Royal Observatory hoisted the No. 1 signal.

The position of the storm at 6.53 a.m. was Lat. 20° N. Long. 118° E. and the direction was west-north-west.

At 6 a.m. the typhoon was situated about 100 miles south-east of Pratas Shoal (about 280 miles S.E. of Hong Kong), moving W.N.W. and threatening the coast near Hong Kong.

On enquiries made at the Observatory yesterday afternoon it was learned from Mr. C. W. Jeffries, Director, that No. 5 signal was hoisted at 1.50 p.m. thus indicating that a gale was expected from the N.W.

The position of the typhoon was given as Lat. 21° N. Long. 117° E. moving W.N.W. within 30 miles radius of Pratas Shoal.

SEVERE TYPHOON

The barometer reading at Pratas at 2 p.m. was 29.02 with a wind force of 72 m.p.h.

Mr. Jeffries stated that the typhoon was very severe. Towards evening native craft, of all description could be seen making their way for shelter and the fairway off West Point, usually crowded with cargo junks, provided an empty aspect.

The rescue tug Kau Sing patrolled the harbour to render assistance where necessary.

Cheung Chau residents were once again marooned when the launch service stopped at the holding of the preliminary typhoon signal.

The total rainfall since January 1, as reported at the Royal Observatory, was 50.02 ins. as against an average of 60.90 ins.

MOVING HONG KONG WAY

The Hong Kong Observatory stated that at 5 p.m. the typhoon was situated in the immediate vicinity of Pratas Shoal, moving W.N.W. and that it will probably enter the coast in the vicinity of Hong Kong during the night.

It was gathered that the typhoon had formed south of Hong Kong and was travelling at the rate of 75 miles an hour from Pratas Island. Wireless communication between there and Hong Kong was interrupted during the afternoon.

The barometer reading at 10 p.m. was 29.40. The local No. 5 signal was then still up, but later the No. 7 (gale expected from N.E.) was hoisted. At about midnight No. 10 (wind of typhoon force expected) was up.

Bad weather is forecast locally in the afternoon report—strong north and north-west winds, probably increasing to a gale from north west or north east, cloudy with rain and heavy squalls.

MANILA WARNING

The following typhoon warning was despatched from Manila at 4 p.m. yesterday through the American Consulate:

Typhoon in about 117 degrees Long. E. and 21 degrees Lat. N. moving W.N.W.

TYPHOON SHELTER

The flashing Red Light on the East side of the Southern entrance of the Yaumati Typhoon Shelter has been altered to a Fixed Red Light, other characteristics remain as hitherto.

OLYMPIC ACTIVITIES DRAWING TO CLOSE

SOCCER AND SWIMMING ATTRACTIONS

CHANCELLOR HITLER ATTENDS

(SPECIAL OLYMPIC SERVICE—COPYRIGHT)

Berlin, August 16.
The last day of the actual competition of the Olympic games was a fitting finish to a fortnight of thrilling events, for winners of no fewer than 16 gold medals had yet to be decided in various competitions. The main centre of attraction on Saturday was the gigantic Olympic Stadium where the football final between Austria and Italy drew at least 100,000 who showed their enthusiasm by loud applause. The swimming stadium, however, likewise had attracted a large throng of spectators who were eager to see the finals of the high diving, and the three last swimming events.

Chancellor Hitler again manifested the keen interest which he had showed throughout the games by a personal appearance at the Olympic swimming stadium, where he witnessed the third triumph of the Dutch girl, Mastenbroek, as well as the other main events on Saturday's programme.

GUESTS ENTERTAINED

On the eve of the close of the eleventh Olympiad, Reich Minister for Propaganda, Dr. Goebbels, invited all the guests of honour at the games to the summer festival on Pfaueninsel, that is, Peacock Island, a retreat of great scenic beauty and of historic memory on the Havel River in the vicinity of Berlin. A large number of guests, including many from other countries present were regaled with the artistic programme provided by the cast of the Deutsches Opera House; by a magnificent fireworks display, after which the whole island was illuminated by hundreds of thousands of electric lights turning night into day.

ROYALTY PRESENT

Dr. Goebbels and his wife showed themselves indefatigable in attending the guests among whom one saw King Boris of Bulgaria; Count Baillet-Latour, President of the Olympic Committee; former Ambassador, Doctor Schurman; many prominent persons in the Olympic organisations of various nations; almost the whole diplomatic corps; almost the entire Reich cabinet; leaders of the Nazi party; representatives of the defence forces; and about 600 members of the Olympic teams.

JAPANESE GESTURE

The women of the Japanese Olympic team appeared in their national costume, and presented Dr. Goebbels with a mascot, expressing the wish that it might bring him luck.

The artistic programme opened with the orchestra playing, "Dance of Olympic Rings," composed by Richard Strauss.

SABRE FENCING

Berlin, Aug. 15.
The Olympic individual sabre fencing competition was won by Kabos (Hungary) while Gerey (Hungary) Marzi (Italy) were placed second and third, respectively.

WATER POLO

The Olympic Gold Medal for water polo was won by Hungary. Germany, which won the same number of matches as Hungary, but scored fewer points, was assigned the Silver Medal, and Belgium the Bronze.

The results of the two matches on Saturday which determined the final assignment of places are as follows: Germany beat Belgium, 4-1. Hungary beat France, 5-0.

BOXING COMPETITIONS

Berlin, August 15.
The Gold, Silver and Bronze medals, in that order, of the Olympic boxing competitions are as follows:
Flyweight: Kaiser (Germany).
Matta (Italy). Laurie (U.S.A.).
Bantamweight: Sergio (Italy).
Wilson (U.S.A.). Ortiz (Mexico).

Featherweight: Casanovas (Argentina). Catterall (South Africa). Miner (Germany).

Lightweight: Harangi (Hungary). Stepulor Agren (Sweden). Peterson (Denmark).

Midweight: Despeaux (France). Tiller (Norway). Villareal (Argentina).

Light-heavyweight: Michels (France). Vogt (Germany). Risikone (Argentina).

The heavyweight final ended in a victory for Range, Germany, winning the Gold Medal, and Lovai (Argentina), the Silver Medal on points.

ANOTHER OLYMPIC RECORD

Women's 400 Metres Freestyle

Berlin, Aug. 16.
Another Olympic record was established when in the final of the women's 400 metres freestyle Mastenbroek (Holland) covered the distance in 5 mins. 26.4 secs., the second place being a tie, both Hveger (Denmark) and Wingard (America) returning the time of 5 mins. 27.5 secs.

MENS 1500 METRES

Terada (Japan) was first in the final of the men's 1,500 metres freestyle in 19 mins. 13.7 secs., followed by Medica (America) in 19 mins. 34 secs., Uto (Japan) in 19 mins. 34.5 secs.

Leivers (Great Britain) finished sixth returning the time of 19 mins. 57.4 secs.

RECORD SMASHED

The Japanese further substantiated their swimming prowess when Hamano (Japan) smashed the former Olympic record established by his compatriot Roike in the final of the men's 200 metres breast-stroke, covering the distance in 2 mins. 42.5 secs. The second place was captured by Sietas (Germany) in 2 mins. 42.9 secs., and Koike (Japan) was third in 2 mins. 44.2 secs.

FOOTBALL

Berlin, August 15.
Germany finally beat Austria by two goals to one on Saturday afternoon in the final Olympic football tournament and thus won her seventh Olympic Gold Medal.

Austria and Italy both played excellently but at times the games were rather rough. The Italians were mostly the aggressors, but the watchfulness of the Austrian defence prevented them from scoring. When half-time was called neither side had yet scored. In the 23rd minute after the interval, Italy took the lead when her outside right, Frossi, sent in a ball after a fine combination play.

Twelve minutes later, however, the Austrian, Kainberger, equalised the score. The Italian as well as the Austrian players thereafter tried desperately to send in the ball for a winning goal.

The match was witnessed by a crowd of about 100,000, including the deputy leader of the Nazi party, Rudolf Hess, and many other prominent personages.

BRIDGE REPAIRED

As a result of urgent repair work, the bridge at Kow Fung on the Canton-Hankow Railway, near the northern border of this province, has been restored to a serviceable condition. Beginning from yesterday, through train service has been resumed on the Pingshek-Kokchong section and further down to Canton. Mr. Ling Hung-tun, Managing Director of the Canton-Hankow Railway Administration, personally visited the bridge to supervise the repair.

BARRICADES OF CORPSES AT BADAJOZ

Scenes Of Devastation And Horror

JOURNALIST'S RISKY ADVENTURE

Sees Most Tragic Aspect Of Savage Civil War

Lisbon, August 16.

Scenes of devastation and horror at Badajoz are described to Reuter by a Portuguese journalist who was the first to enter the town after the capture by the insurgents.

The journalist said that the insurgent military commander who was persuaded to give permission to enter warned him that he was running a great risk and advised him to beware of the Moorish troops patrolling the town who were then still in a most excited condition.

He found that a part of Badajoz which had not been destroyed was in a state of fantastic confusion. There were barricades in every street and every barricade was literally a mountain of corpses.

BLOOD-STAINED WALL

A blood-stained wall with perforated bullet marks at military headquarters shows where some 2,000 were executed by the insurgents.

"Well, perhaps not quite so many," said Colonel Yague, the present ruler of Badajoz, when the journalist mentioned the figure of 2,000.

The journalist describes pitiful scenes when women searching the barricades came on the body of a husband or a son. He says that these bereaved women and children provide the most tragic aspect of this civil war.

The capture of the city was effected by simultaneous attacks from two sides. According to a captain of the Spanish Legion, the fighting lasted forty-eight hours. The Reds battled with the ferocity of lions and the Legionaries made the bravest bayonet charges in the Legion's history.

NORTHERN ATTACK
(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)
Paris, Aug. 15.

The battle outside San Sabastian is still continuing, according to the latest despatches here, which state that a detachment of 3,000 Nationalists has now advanced to a point only 18 kilometres from the city.

Another detachment of the insurgent army is pushing forward from Renteria and Oyarzun, in the west and are now threatening Irun. The number of insurgents transported to the northern country from Spanish Morocco is said to total about 15,000.

MANY EXECUTIONS
London, Aug. 15.
The horrors of the Spanish civil war are described in despatches from various centres.

No journalists have hitherto been allowed to visit Badajoz, but it is known that many executions of Popular Front supporters are taking place incessantly since the fall of the city.

HOSTAGES PAY PENALTY
At San-Sebastian, where no citizens holds his life worth a minute's purchase, hostages pay the penalty for insurgent attacks, as for example the case of one old man who was dragged from prison and executed as retaliation for blowing off the two legs of a child of ten during the insurgent air raid. "Long live dynamite," has become a slogan among extremist government people, many of whom are miners and declare that they will blow up the city rather than surrender—a threat to which the presence in the city of huge stocks of explosives and arrival of reinforcements of two thousand desperate miners from Bilbao gives colour.

READY TO BLOW UP
Though several hundred members of the Spanish aristocracy are already huddled together in the hold of a cargo vessel, the Angel Perez in San Sebastian harbour, defenders of the city, afraid of running short of hostages, conducted an indiscriminate raid in the city and collected five hundred more whom they placed in another cargo vessel. Both vessels are reported to be filled with charges of dynamite and are under a threat of being blown up if the insurgent ships bombard the city.

REBELS TAKE BADAJOZ

Terrible Battle Scenes

TOWN IN FLAMES

Lisbon, Aug. 15.

Badajoz was captured by the insurgents last evening after a battle which lasted several days and ended with the burning of the town.

Reuter's special correspondent, who flew over the scene, arrived at the height of the fierce fighting. An insurgent three-engined war plane could be seen raining bombs, while, despite the fact that the insurgents had already entered the town, savage hand-to-hand fighting was going on in the streets as the loyalists, with the courage of desperation, contested every inch.

The insurgents' advance was being watched by the correspondent from the international bridge across the Guadiana River not more than 200 yards distant. The correspondent witnessed the continual execution of captured Communists, while in the background could be seen the smoke and flames of battle as Badajoz was transformed into a funeral pyre for its slaughtered defenders.

The plight of the refugees, many of whom are women, is desperate, and medical supplies and provisions are being despatched.

OTHER POINTS ATTACKED

London, Aug. 15.

Besides Badajoz, which they are reported to have captured, the Spanish insurgents are attacking San Sebastian and Malaga. Insurgent aircraft is bombing San Sebastian, where eight prisoners are said to have been shot as a reprisal. Insurgent plane also bombed Malaga, on which 700 Moroccan troops with artillery are said to be advancing. They claim to have defeated the Government troops with a loss of 160 killed.

Meanwhile the Government forces are apparently pressing the insurgents hard at Ovelido and Cordoba. They are said to have surrounded Granada and to be nearing Huesca, despite a violent insurgent attack on Tardienta.

LISBON PROTESTS TO MADRID

Lisbon, Aug. 15.

The Portuguese Charge d'Affaires at Madrid has been instructed to lodge an energetic protest and demand compensation in connection with the incident in which Spanish Government militiamen crossed the frontier and attacked the property of a Portuguese subject.

The Portuguese Government has also sent a request to Madrid for the release of the Portuguese reported to have been imprisoned.

TROTSKY VERY INDIGNANT

Soviet Charge Denied

KIROV MURDER ALLEGATION

Oslo, August 15.

An indignant denial of the charge that he is instigating terrorist plots against the Soviet was issued by Leon Trotsky, who is living in exile in Norway.

Trotsky states he has no connection with Soviet affairs apart from a few articles about Russia written for foreign papers.

GERMANY BROUGHT IN

Moscow, August 15.

According to accusations against Zinovieff and Kamenev published in the press, they, as agents of the German Secret Police, caused the assassination of Kirov two years ago and plotted the murder of Stalin and other Soviet officials.

MOSCOW ALLEGATIONS

The allegation that Leon Trotsky sent terrorists from abroad into Soviet Russia was made by the Commissar of the Interior, when announcing that Zinovieff and Kamenev and about a dozen other alleged counter-revolutionaries would be tried in open court on August 19, before the Military Collegium of the Supreme Court, on the charge of participating in terrorist plots against the state.

The plot was laid against the leaders of the state at the instigation of Trotsky and Zinovieff. The prosecution's statement alleges that the Trotsky and Zinovieff Centre Bloc was formed in 1932 and that it supervised the operations of a number of terrorist groups.

It is claimed that the Leningrad group was responsible for the assassination of M. Kirov, in 1934.

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF KENT

Narrow Escape In Car Collision

Vienna, Aug. 15.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent has a narrow escape from serious accident while motoring with their host, Count von Hofmannsthal yesterday.

The car collided with another on a narrow road along the edge of a lake. The other machine fell into the lake and its four occupants were slightly injured. The Duke and Duchess of Kent were unhurt. Despite the accident the Duke and Duchess left Kammer Castle, where they have been staying, this afternoon and motored to Yugoslavia where they will stay at the summer residence of the Regent, Prince Paul.

It is expected that the Duke and Duchess will meet King Edward at Split to which the King is expected to proceed to-day.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS

London, August 15.

The Board of Trade returns show that imports last month totals £88,737,020, being an increase of £3,987,492 on July 1935. Exports amounted to £40,085,922, being an advance of £3,642,473 on July 1935.

SAN SEBASTIAN BOMBING

Hostages Shot As Reprisal

MORE IMPRISONED ON SHIPS

(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)
Paris, Aug. 15.

Eight political hostages have already been shot by the Marxists in San Sebastian, according to the "Matin," which adds that this measure was taken by way of reprisal for the death of a similar number of persons who were killed in the course of the air attack on the town by the Nationalists.

This attack, so the paper says, roused the populace to fury and the demand was immediately raised that all 700 hostages held by the "Red Militia" should be shot forthwith, but the authorities have apparently so far succeeded in resisting the demand.

The paper states, however, that the Marxist authorities have made it known that revenge will be taken on the hostages for every further rebel attack on the town, either from the air or sea, and that for fear lest the 700 hostages will not suffice, the Red Militia have arrested another 500 prominent citizens who are now awaiting their fate on board a ship in port.

The paper likewise reports that large quantities of dynamite have been placed by the Red Militia on the two ships in which the total number of 1,200 hostages are imprisoned, and that in the event of the capture of the town by the Nationalists the Red Militia would not hesitate to blow up the vessels beforehand.

To 4th Route Army Officers

MOVE TO CHUNGFA PROPOSED

Led by Commander-in-chief Yu Hon-mow and Vice-Commander Heung Hon-ping, the entire body of the ranking officers of the 4th Route Army called on Marshal Chiang Kai-shek recently when they were entertained at dinner at the Municipal Reception Hall.

In the course of his address, Marshal Chiang earnestly solicited the co-operation of these officers to serve the Party and the Nation and to assist in the defense of Kwangtung province which is the cradle of the Chinese Revolution thus upholding her glorious past. In addition, he explained the purpose of his present visit in Canton and the measures to be taken in connection with the Kwangsi situation.

Marshal Chiang gave a separate reception to the Pacification Commissioners of the five sections of Kwangtung later in the morning when he delivered his instructions as to the work of pacification and rehabilitation in their respective areas.

It is learned that on account of the intensely hot weather, Marshal Chiang is considering removal of his temporary office to Chungfa in the near future.

NON-INTERVENTION IN SPAIN'S CIVIL WAR

BRITAIN GIVING FULL SUPPORT

Ban Placed On Exports Of War Material

London, August 15.

A sternly worded communique was issued by the Foreign Office which says that the Government is giving the fullest support to the French efforts towards non-intervention in Spain. When a general agreement is reached they are ready to prohibit the export of arms and other war materials and also use every possible means to prevent the supply of civil aircraft. In the meantime no licenses have been issued for export of arms to Spain since the present troubles commenced.

British subjects who assist either side by land, sea or air must not expect to receive any assistance or support whatever in such enterprises which run counter to the objects the Government is seeking to obtain.

Among the countries which signified willingness to join the non-intervention movement and have already forbidden export of arms are France, Britain, Belgium, Poland, Holland, Sweden, Russia, Norway, Denmark, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland. No final reply has been received from Germany or Italy.

ANGLO-FRENCH ACCORD

London, Aug. 15.

It is officially announced that full agreement has been reached between the British and French Governments on the text of the French proposals for prohibition of export of iron and munitions of war to Spain. Notes were signed and exchanged between the two Governments in Paris this afternoon. The agreement will come into force as soon as the assent of Germany, Italy, Portugal and Russia is received.

The attitude of the Soviet Government is understood to be favourable, and the Portuguese Government has accepted the principle of non-intervention. No final reply has yet been received from Germany or Italy and the British Government are again to-day urgently supporting the representations of the French Government in Rome.

PORTUGAL'S NOTE

Lisbon, Aug. 15.

The Portuguese Government's note accepting in principle the French proposals for non-intervention in Spain condemns the ferocity of the civil war and the violent methods of the anarchists. It calls the attention of the other Governments to the danger that the civil war may create in Portugal.

SWISS DECISION

Berne, Aug. 14.

The Swiss Government will not join the International Neutrality Agreement in connection with the Civil War in Spain, as the Federal Council has already taken measures to prohibit the exportation of arms and war material to Spain, as well as the issue of passports to persons who intend to join the conflicting parties in Spain.

ITALIAN DELAY

Rome, Aug. 15.

While it is still assumed that agreement of non-intervention in Spain will be reached eventually, there seems no hurry to conclude negotiations. The mid-August festival of Serragosto affords the reason for a further postponement in the next few days.

MYSTERY PLANES

London, Aug. 15.

There are many reports of mysterious planes leaving to join the Spanish Government or the insurgents. Four aeroplanes left Gatwick to-day. Their destination at first was not known, but it was later established that they were not concerned with Spain but sold for commercial use in Poland.

Half a dozen British planes are being held by the customs authorities at Le Bourget. The authorities, on being questioned, invariably reply "we know nothing."

TRAINING R.A.F. PILOTS

In order to provide more Air Force pilots the British Government is giving twelve months' training to youths between 18 and 25 years of age. The first part of the

KWANGSI IMPASSE CONTINUES

Hope For Peaceful Outcome

Shanghai, Aug. 15.

If General Li Tsung-jen and Pei Chung-hai execute their reported intention of proclaiming a separatist military Government in Nanning to-day, decisive developments may be expected to occur in South China. The situation is still ominous, but a hopeful element has been injected into it by Chinese despatches stating that the two warlords intend to retire.

Although Generals Li and Pei have been consistently uncompromising it would surprise no one if they decide at the last moment to submit. In fact, several Chinese reports confidently predict such a denouement.

Nanking, Aug. 15.

It is reported that the Foreign Office is appointing Mr. Tsiang Lul-fu as Consul-General in Singapore.

ARAB ATTACKS IN PALESTINE

Jerusalem, Aug. 15.

Four occupants of a car were killed and a fifth wounded as the result of an Arab attack outside Haifa during last night. The victims were a chauffeur, a Jew and two Jewish special constables, while the wounded man was another Jewish constable.

A Cameron Highlander was seriously wounded when snipers fired into a military lorry on the Jerusalem-Nablus road. These outrages form the climax to one of the blackest weeks of terrorism since the disorders began four months ago.

London, July 25.
British athletes taking part in the Olympic Games will probably be glad to learn that they will not give any arm salute when they march past Herr Hitler at the opening of the Games. The team managers have decided that the military salute, "eyes right" will suffice. Of course the athletes may have an opportunity of raising their arms, but then, it is to be hoped, the occasion will be the breaking of the tape in the moment of victory.

OPEN PAIRS FINAL

KEEN TUSSELE EXPECTED

What promises to be a keen tussle will be witnessed on Wednesday afternoon, when R. Duncan and S. Randle, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, meet J. E. Noronha and F. X. M. da Silva, of the Club de Recreio, in the finals of the Open Pairs Championship of the Colony, held under the auspices of the H.K. Lawn Bowls Association.

Duncan in partnership with his son, L. A. R. Duncan reached the finals last year when they were beaten by W. K. Way and J. Cavanagh, of the Craigengower C.C. J. E. Noronha was No. 1 in the Hong Kong Interport team last year in the series played in the Colony, and with Silva are given slight odds in winning the title.

RINK SEMI-FINAL

The remaining semi-final round encounter in the Open Rinks competition, between the Indian Recreation Club four comprising D. M. Khan, A. K. Minu, M. Y. Adal and A. R. Dallan (skip) and the Craigengower quartette comprising A. M. Omar, K. M. Omar, D. Rumjahn and U. M. Omar (skip) will be played at Club de Recreio at a date to be announced later.

LAWN BOWLS IN THE RAIN

POLICE COMPETITION FOR KENT CUP

The Kent Cup—played for annually by members of the Police Recreation Club, provided good sport yesterday at the P.R.C. Green, at Happy Valley, when members of the club, comprising four rinks, contested the right to enter the finals.

The games which were run on a "knock-out" system, commenced at 10.30 a.m. and were completed to the semi-final stage, resulting in S. Farlow's rink (N. B. Fraser, J. S. Riddell and F. E. E. Booker) meeting S. Smith's rink (A. J. Johnson, W. E. Holland and F. Nolan) in the finals to be contested next Sunday commencing at 10.30 a.m.

The Kent Cup was instituted in 1931, when Mr. Walter Kent, then Assistant Superintendent of the Police, retired from the Force, and donated the cup.

The actual semi-final games were played in a downpour of rain, and amusement was caused by the on-lookers safely within the precincts of the club, at the attempts of the men still engaged on the green, to obtain shelter under two umbrellas available at the time.

The scores were as follows:
W. Greig, S. Logan, A. E. Carey and C. Downman (skip) beat J. Dredge, J. Dobson, C. Gough and W. Mair (skip), 26-9.

S. Farlow, J. S. Riddell, F. E. E. Booker and N. B. Fraser (skip) beat L. Glendinning, T. R. Hunter, H. E. Brown, and R. H. Mark 21-19.

F. Nolan, A. J. Johnson, W. E. Holland, and S. Smith (skip) beat W. Campbell, W. S. Dall, W. Hollands (Jr.) and J. Orem (skip) 28-10.

C. Blackburn, F. Channings, J. Galvin and D. Pitches (skip) beat Greig, Logan, Carey and Downman (skip) 22-11.
Farlow, Riddell, Booker and Fraser (skip) beat Greig, Logan, Carey and Downman (skip) 21-11.
In the semi-final, Johnson, Nolan, Hollands, and S. Smith (skip) beat Blackburn, Channings, Galvin and Pitches (skip) 24-14 in the semi-final.

WEEK-END BASEBALL

AMERICANS DEFEAT PUI CHING

Bad Umpiring Mars Game

JAPANESE EASILY BEAT VOLUNTEERS

(BY "BLEACHER")

When a man bites a dog—well, the American baseball team is out of the cellar, and they licked the team that has been playing consistently in good form up to the present.

Williams, at third; Smedley, short-stop; and Hearther, at first, played stellar ball all through the game. Mayhew's aggressiveness was missing at second, but the others in the team supplied plenty of that, especially against the decisions of Pierce and Dodge, who did the umpiring for both games played on Saturday.

The game between the Americans and Pui Ching was a mild comparison of what one would expect of a ball game in the United States. The game was fraught with exciting incidents when the poor umpires called close decisions, and when the peregrinations of a mild cow in the outfield almost helped the lads from Canton win the game.

The battery of Thompson and Allen managed to hold down the youngsters to a score of 9-5. Thompson pitched the whole game; B. Gong had to replace E. Wong on the mound for Pui Ching, and J. Chock came in from centrefield with a cut hand, to catch for the losing side.

The lads from Canton couldn't seem to play the usual bang-up game as when they had Kim and King with them, and the Americans made most of their opportunities. The Americans scored 7 runs in the first two innings, and that seemed to be more than the kids could take. However, they tried their best, and put up a scrappy fight against heavy odds.

The same number of hits were made by each team, while Thompson fanned out 6, and walked 3, and Wong and Gong fanned out only 3, and walked 5 of the Americans.

The peanut gallery out at Causeway Bay caused considerable irritation to Williams, the third baseman of the Americans. He could have caught a couple of flies, but there were too many in his way.

It may be wondered that someone in authority does not use a little persuasion in handling that sort of a crowd at a baseball game. A fatality could easily occur from a foul behind either the third or first base lines.

There is another thing the League might attend to, and that is to peg down the bases. The Pui Ching lads are adept at sliding, but they get tagged out on the bases as the sacks are about at least a foot away from them after they slide into one of them.

The Hong Kong Baseball League might do well in putting in the hands of the umpires a book of rules to study before appearing at games.

Scores by Innings:—
1 2 3 4 5 6 7
Americans 3 4 0 0 2 0 — 9 runs
3 3 0 1 0 1 0 — 8 hits
Pui-Ching 1 0 2 1 0 0 1 — 5 runs
0 0 3 1 1 0 2 — 7 hits

VOLUNTEERS AND JAPANESE
As expected, the Nippons took the Volunteers to camp with a decisive score; 11-5.

"Lefty" Bowen was very much out of form, and had to be replaced on the mound by Pereira, who lasted only a couple of innings. Dave Leonard took his place then, and made a good showing for his side.

It was a rather uninteresting ball game, and most of the fans were waiting for the next encounter.

Scores by Innings:—
1 2 3 4 5 6 7
Japanese 1 0 0 4 3 1 2 — 11 runs
Y.M.A. 1 1 0 2 2 0 3 — 9 hits
Volunteers 0 0 0 2 2 1 — 5 runs
1 1 0 1 2 2 3 — 10 hits

PUI CHING LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Japanese Beat Eastern

With a slight drizzle before the baseball games, and an overcast sky for the initial tilt, the players out at Causeway Bay welcomed the fact that King Sol had decided not to show himself.

The Pui Ching lads trimmed the Volunteers by only one run; 10-9. Neither side changed pitchers; both Bowen and Gong pitched all the seven innings. The day before, they had to be removed from the mound and substituted.

Only one man from each team was walked, but Gong fanned out eight. Volunteers while Bowen struck out only four of the boys from Canton. The hitting average was the same on both sides.

Pui Ching can count themselves the winner of the pennant, as they are at the top of the local League with no earthly chance of any other team coming up and passing them. The fact that the American gunboats are out of the League makes it possible for Pui Ching to retain this position (see Percentage table).

JAPANESE v. EASTERN

There were no spectacular plays in this game. The Nipponese won by the overwhelming score of 17-6, which was merely baseball practice for the boys from the Land of the Rising Sun.

Although the Easterns started off with a bang by scoring five runs in the first innings, they were unable to keep up the good work. They only scored another run in the next inning, and when the slow ball artist, Mikuni, went off the mound in the third, the Eastern went scoreless to the end of the game.

The relief hurler for the Japanese only allowed two safe hits in the last four innings, and there were only fourteen men who faced him. That's good baseball, even though they were playing against inexperienced youngsters! The Japanese have been practising faithfully these past few weeks, and the brand of ball they're putting out these days show that they have done themselves a lot of good.

Only one of the Easterns was walked, while 7 Nippons had a pass to first. The latter team hit twice as much as the Easterns did, and they made use of those hits by stealing home.

The Eastern boys are now at the cellar position, but they still have three more games to play. Together with the Americans and the Volunteers, they have each lost five games.

ENGLAND-INDIA FINAL TEST MATCH

Brilliant Display By Walter Hammond

London, August 15.

A superb batting display by Walter Hammond (217), assisted by Worthington (128) who scored his first Test century placed England in a favourable position to win the final Test cricket match against All-India at the Oval. England's score at the close of the first day's play was 471 for 8 wickets.

Hammond and Worthington established a record English fourth wicket Test partnership which yielded 286 runs in 175 minutes. A crowd of 9,000 attended the opening, the weather being so gloriously warm that hundreds watched the game in their shirt sleeves.

There was no change in the teams, only Robins standing down as the twelfth man for England.

Fagg and Barnett opened the innings for England. With the total at 19 Fagg was caught by Hussain off Amar Singh.

Hammond stepped into the breach and indulged in some superb off-driving with perfect timing and footwork. He scored his 50 in 75 minutes including six boundaries. The partnership yielded 74 runs when Barnett was l.b.w. to Nayudu, 93 for 2. Barnett had scored 43, including six boundaries, in an enterprising game.

Hammond (68) and Leyland (22) carried on until lunch time when the total was 147 for 2.

When the match was resumed before 12,000 spectators it was announced that Mustaq Ali would not be fielding owing to a leg injury. Leyland in attempting to drive an over-pitched ball from Nissar lost his wicket, 156 for 3.

MISSED AT 96

Hammond, now joined by Worthington, continued to play a sound and judicious game, blending a certain amount of aggression with his defensive tactics. He was missed at 96. Wazir Ali dropping the most easiest of catches.

Hammond and Worthington settled down to a fine partnership, the former reaching his century in 165 minutes and the latter in 75 minutes. Both welcomed Merchant who, being no bowler, tossed up long hops and full tosses which they pushed severely.

At the tea adjournment Hammond had brought his score to 150, made in 225 minutes, and Worthington had reached 108 scored in the fast time of 89 minutes. The total was 336 for 3.

TEST RECORD

Hammond was magnificent and apart from several edgy strokes he played a forceful game, reaching his 200 in 285 minutes with 28 fours. The pair added 268 runs for the fourth wicket in 175 minutes, which is a Test record. It was Worthington's first Test century.

With the total at 422, Hammond played-on to Nissar. He scored 217, batting for five hours and driving thirty times to the boundary. With the addition of 15 runs Worthington met the same fate at the hands of Nissar. He had scored 128, including nineteen fours, with faultless hard driving, 437 for 5.

QUICK DISMISSALS

Allen, the skipper, was caught by Hussain off Nissar after he had scored 13, 455 for 6. Verity followed soon after, caught by Hussain and bowled by Nissar, 463 for 7. Sims scored a single before he was l.b.w. to Amar Singh, 468 for 8. Fishlock 19 not out and Voce 1 not out took the score to 471 at the close—Reuter.

WISHED TO SEE HER HUSBAND'S GRAVE-AND DIE

London, July 21.

Unknown to the majority of the 1200 Vimy pilgrims who arrived at Southampton from Havre on the Cunard-White Star liner Antonia to-day one of their number died during the night.

Mrs. Rosina Kemp, of Calgary, who was 58, was ill when she left Montreal.

Her husband was killed in the war and she had always wished to see his grave.

On the voyage from Canada she said to a fellow-pilgrim, "For twenty years I have patiently waited to visit Vimy and see my husband's grave. When I have done that I want to die."

Mrs. Kemp saw her husband's grave and returned to the ship, which sailed at eight o'clock last night.

She was in such a weak state that she was placed in the ship's hospital. At mid-night she died of heart failure.

Her body is being taken in the ship to Liverpool, whence it will probably return to Canada for burial by her relatives.

"THE TWO MINUTES SILENCE"

That followed was intensified by the sonorous note of Big Ben striking noon. A Canadian said afterwards it seemed like the heart of the Empire beating.

The Colours were raised for the Revellie, and dipped again for "God Save the King," in which all joined—the Canadians, the crowds of Londoners, the Government officials lining the windows along Whitehall.

"TIES NOTHING CAN BREAK"

Before giving the blessing, the Bishop of London, in a short address, recalled that in 1915 he had addressed 10,000 Canadians before the second battle of Ypres. "Of 72 young officers I spoke to before that battle, 42 were killed," he said, "and of those 10,000, half were either killed or wounded."

"The common sacrifices we have all made together form ties which nothing can break. I want you to go back to Canada and tell them how proud the old country is of you."

A number of wreaths were then placed on the Cenotaph, including one from the British Legion, and one laid by Captain Baker, Canadian, who lost his sight in the War.

One wreath was laid there by Mrs. Woods, the Canadian mother who lost six of her 12 sons in the war, and the other by Mrs. Wardle, Mrs. Hancock and Mrs. Dumont la Viéte, representing mothers of Canada who lost sons in the War.

China Baptist Centennial

He was a prodigious worker. Not only did he translate the Bible, but he prepared other helps of language study.

He was for many years a preacher at Hong Kong, latterly in the Mission Hospital.

He tried to make himself so much a Chinese when he first arrived that he suffered ill health.

William Milne, Dr. Morrison's colleague, did a lot of work for the missionaries out of China.

Milne and his young wife arrived in Macao in 1813, but were forced to leave, and sailed for Malacca in 1815. They remained there until 1842, when they came to Hong Kong.

FIRST AMERICAN MISSIONARIES

The first American missionaries to reach China were the Revs. E. E. Bridgman and D. Abeel, of the American Board Mission, who arrived at Canton in 1830. They came in urgent appeal from Dr. Morrison.

Another of the pre-treaty missionaries who attained fame, again, of the American Board, was Dr. S. Wells Williams. He did much to help later students with the language and wrote "The Middle Kingdom," a book which was long considered the most complete guide to a knowledge of China. He assisted in the publication of the Chinese Repository, a veritable gold-mine of information.

As the date of your Mission Centenary indicates the American Baptists were only beginning their work in China when the first war broke out between Britain and China. I understand that Rev. John Lewis Shuck reached Macao in 1836, and Mr. Shuck paid a ten days' visit to Canton before he and his wife settled at Macao until Hong Kong was occupied in 1842. Issachar Jacob Roberts, who later resided at Tsing Hoi Moon, Canton, and in whose house Hung Sab Tsuen, the Tai-ping leader, received some months of Christian instruction, arrived at Macao in 1837. But in preparation for your centenary celebration you have gathered far more regarding the beginnings of your work than I can tell you, and I am looking forward with real interest to hearing about it.

May none of us be sluggish but followers of those who through faith and patience have inherited the promises."

Mr. A. R. Gallimore was next on programme to give a talk on "Tracing the lines of Baptist History in China," but time was limited and he had to make his speech short.

He remarked that along the highway of the past hundred years, there were not many great markers.

William Cary left England in 1792, and with Dr. Judson, were liberal supporters of the Mission in India.

The Baptist Church was established in 1835 in Bangkok, and it is the oldest church (Baptist) in China.

FIRST BAPTISTS

The first Baptist missionaries to arrive in the mainland of China were Rev. J. Lewis, and Mrs. Henrietta Shuck, who arrived at Macao in 1836. Mrs. Shuck is said to have been the first foreign woman to reside in the Colony of Hong Kong, moving here from Macao in 1842. She died in 1844, and was buried in Happy Valley Cemetery.

Mr. Shuck was a co-editor of "The Friend of China," perhaps the first effort in journalism in Hong Kong.

Rev. I. J. Roberts, and Dr. William Dean arrived here about the same time, 1842.

The first Baptist Church in Hong Kong was established in 1844 on Queen's Road, just north of the present Bellios Public School. The Baptist Church on Cheung Chau Island also dates from about 1845, and is still extant.

Miss Mary C. Alexander spoke next, and she was followed by Dr. M. T. Rankin, who is the secretary of the Baptist Mission in the Orient.

THE QUEEN MARY'S TIME

FASTEST CROSSING BUT NO RECORD

New York, July 27.
The Queen Mary last night completed the fastest crossing of the Atlantic ever made by a liner—4 days, 8 hours, and 37 minutes from Cherbourg Breakwater to the Ambrose Lightship—but she has yet to win from the Normandie the Blue Pennant which marks her as Ocean Champion. This is because although the Queen Mary made the voyage faster by 3 hours and 5 minutes than the Normandie steamed in June, 1935, from the Nab to New York, the Normandie covered a longer distance and at a higher average speed than did the Queen Mary. The difference in average speed was only .03 of a knot—23.61 knots as against 29.64—but it was enough to keep the Queen Mary's Commander, Sir Edgar Britten, from claiming, or wishing to claim, the title of champion for her.

When the Queen Mary was off the Nantuxet Lightship yesterday, a seaplane chartered by a Boston newspaper fell into the sea near her; but Sir Edgar Britten said that the incident did not much affect the liner's speed. He slowed the ship down for a time until he was sure that the victims of the crash were being picked up by a cargo steamer, and then resumed his voyage. There were nine persons in the seaplane. One of them, a photographer, was killed in the crash but the others suffered only minor injuries. Apparently while circling above the liner the seaplane had been drawn into a vacuum created by her speed.

About 6,000 persons were at the Queen Mary's pier to welcome her when she docked at 8.30 a.m. today after having passed the night at the quarantine station. She had arrived at the Ambrose Channel Lightship at 12.33 a.m. Summer time, and had anchored there for an hour before going on to the quarantine station.
